ROAD TRIP ESSENTIALS

Gear Up for An Epic Ride

FUN TRAVEL FACTS

The United States

From the shores of Florida and epic cities like New York and San Francisco, this country has tons to see and do. What's even more interesting is the huge mix of cultures, natural landscapes and interesting travel destinations that have made the USA a popular tourism hot-spot. Here are some fun and interesting facts about the United States.

- There's a palace made totally out of corn in Mitchell, SD.
- The Liberty Bell in Pennsylvania is from London.
- There are 43 giant presidential heads in Houston, TX.
- The tallest tree in the world has a height of 380 ft or 115m and is located in Redwood National Park in California.
- Washington, DC wasn't always the Capital of America—until 1790, New York City was.
- Las Vegas is the gambling capital of the world.
- The United States doesn't have an official language.
- The Gateway Arch in St. Louis is the tallest monument in the U.S.
- Iolani Palace in Honolulu, Hawaii is the only royal palace ever used by a monarch in the United States.

Road Trip Essentials:

Packing for an Epic Road Trip

While road trips can last anywhere from a weekend to a year or more, it can be tempting to pack a lot of gear—you're not limited by airline restrictions, after all—but we suggest packing the least amount of stuff possible. You won't have to go digging through a trunk full of stuff to pull out the few things that you actually use. Here are the must haves for your next road trip.

Standalone Bags & Organizers

We've found that the classic duffel and backpack are the best for road trips. Duffles are great for hauling the majority of your clothes as they're typically easy to pack—both in terms of throwing your stuff into one and packing in the car. The backpack can act as an overnight bag.

Clothing & Accessories

Road trips frequently involve a variety of scenarios: sitting down to a fancy dinner with your friends, camping, or spending the day at the beach, just to name a few. (And, of course, lots and lots of driving.) We suggest versatile, durable clothing that can keep up with whatever life on the road throws at you. Comfort is also key.

Tech & Devices

Road trips are a great way to unplug and recharge. But a little technology can go a long way in making your time on the road less of a misadventure and more of an epic adventure. Don't forget the chargers!

Toiletries & Personal Care

As far as we're concerned, smelling of sweat and sunscreen is a part of the fun of road trips (...right?). But your fellow roadies—and grocery store clerks, baristas, park rangers, and everyone else you come in contact with on your travels will thank you if you freshen up from time to time.

Ready, Set, GO!

So there you have it—everything we've found that you need for a successful road trip. Long stretches of open highway, a sense of total freedom, good tunes puts an epic adventure all at your fingertips...so pack light, leave early and enjoy the ride!
